Ground Plaster.

I HAVE on hand a large quantity of I GROUND PLASTER in barrels and in bulk, which I will sell low. March 15 A. P. GOVER.

Notice.

To Wheelwrights, Blacksmiths, Tanners, Harness-Makers, Saddlers, Hatters, &c.

BELIEVING as I do, that PROVIDENCE, at Fairfax Court-House, would be a suitable situation for mechanics of the above description, I offer to such, lots in that vil- lage for sale, on ground rent for ever—will build and furnish suitable houses and rent to them, or furnish brick to them to build with, and invite any who feel disposed to settle there, for the purpose of carrying on their respective trades to advantage, to come and view the situation. It is a very public place, the centre of the county, where the superior and county courts are held. The Little River Turnpike Road passes through this little town from Alex- andria westward, and where all the public meetings for the county, &c. are held; and where trades of the aforesaid description being carried on, would meet with great encouragement, and be a public con- venience to the country around. No situation can be more healthy—good water, and fire wood cheap. Mechanics of the above de- scription must generally depend on the country people, farmers, &c. to be their customers. Here they would be in a con- venient situation for all the purposes. I invite a call, and view for themselves. I would also furnish lots adjacent, from one to five acres each, for cultivation, pasture, &c. on moderate terms; all of which can be shown, and terms made known, on ap- plication to RICH'D. CABINET-MAKERS.

RESPECTFULLY inform their friends and the public in general, that they still continue to carry on the above business in all its various branches, at the same old stand, Royal-st. between King and Prince, and have now on hand a handsome as- sortment of cabinet ware, all of their own ma- nufacture; consisting of side-boards, secre- taries and book cases, bureaus, ladies' work stands, mahogany and stained wood head- stands, cradles, sofas and easy chairs, one handsome mahogany writing desk, &c. &c. Also, on hand a large quantity of St. Do- mingo and Bay Mahogany, in log and boards, and cut to any dimensions at a short notice—four or five thousand feet of elegant veneers for bureaus and secretaries, all of which they are determined to sell low- er than the same quality can be had in the district. All kinds of upholstery work done as usual.

They would rent for one or more years a very excellent shop and yard for a car- penter, wheelwright, or blacksmith, situ- ated on Royal-street, between Prince and Duke street. Feb 11

IMPORTANT.

The Savannah Republican of the 8th inst. says—"We have seen a gentleman who has just arrived from Havana, in the Post Boat, who states that Admiral Popham was at that place with three seventy fours, and two frigates—that he was making arrangements with the governor for the transfer of the Island of Cuba, which it was reported had been ceded to the British government, and it was said would be given up at the expiration of nine months. Our informant further states, that it was talked of generally in Havana, and believed by many that a cession of Cuba to England had absolutely taken place—that private letters from Jamaica tended to confirm the report—yet, that the inhabitants of that Island did not appear to be inclined to change their yoke, but were warmly disposed to declare themselves independent.

[A letter received in this city a few days past, from a respectable merchant, confirms the above report—and further states, that implicit faith was put in the rumor, when it was ascertained that it originated from a letter to the Spanish Ambassador at the court of St James, to his friend in the Havana.]—Ed. So.

From the New-York Evening Post, LAW INTELLIGENCE.

A case of great importance has been decided this forenoon in the Supreme Court of this state: the case of Mather and Strong, vs Ira Bush. It will only be necessary to state the following facts, in order to give a correct idea of the points in issue. Bush became indebted to the plaintiffs in 1816; in 1817 he obtained a discharge from all his debts, under the insolvent law, passed in 1813—Relying upon the late decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, that state insolvent laws could only have the effect to exempt the body from imprisonment, but not the property subsequently acquired, the plaintiff took out an execution against the goods, and this was a motion on the part of the defendant in the court below, for relief. The question submitted to the court, and argued, at great length, by the counsel on both sides, was whether the original contract, being made after the passing of the state insolvent law, was not made with an implied reference to it as one of the existing laws of the state, and subject to be controlled by it accordingly? The court was of opinion in the affirmative, and ordered the execution to be discharged. We understand the creditors intend to carry up the case to Washington.

Another question of scarcely less interest, was argued by the same counsel, viz: what would be the law in a case where the debt was contracted previous to the insolvent act; but on this no opinion was given. Emmet, for the creditors; Wells, Ogden, Jones, and Griffin for the insolvents.

From the New-York Daily Advertiser.

We have been furnished by a gentleman of the bar, with the following general statement of the principle decided by the Supreme Court yesterday, on the insolvent cases pending before that court.

INSOLVENT LAWS.

In the Supreme Court of this state, now in Session in this city, the opinion of the Court was given yesterday by Mr. Chief Justice Spencer on the subject of our insolvent laws.

The late decision on this subject at Washington had given birth to sundry legal proceedings, involving the validity of insolvent discharges, and a variety of cases were accordingly presented to the Court. The majority of the cases, it was observed by the Chief Justice, resolved themselves into three classes—

1. Applications for leave to issue writs of scire facias to revive old judgments, docketed previously to the passage of the laws, under which the insolvents had obtained their discharges.

(The effect of which would be to reinstate the judgments in their original force and to confirm their lien upon all the real estate owned by the insolvents at any time subsequently to the entry of such judgments, in whose ever hands the same might be.)

2. Applications to set aside executions, issued on judgments that had been a long time dormant, but which were obtained on contracts made previously to the passage of the law, under which the insolvent had obtained his discharge.—(The law of 1811 was more particularly in view in this class of cases.)

3. Applications to set aside executions which had been issued on judgments obtained on contracts made since the passage of the present insolvent law in 1813, under which discharges had been obtained.

The importance of the questions were so great that the court stated they should hold the cases comprised in the two first classes under advisement until the next term of the Court.

On the last class of cases the court decided that the executions must be set aside with costs, leaving it to the plaintiffs to bring actions of debt on the judgments if they think proper.

The binding authority of the Supreme Court of the United States, on the questions presented for their decision was distinctly recognized. It was held, however, that neither of the cases before that court, presented the point on which this 3d class of cases turned. In one, the contract was made before the passage of the law; in the other the contract was made by citizens of South Carolina, and in reference to the laws of that state, and that the allowing a law of New-Orleans to discharge the debt, might therefore be held to impair the obligation of the contract.

The court did not admit the force of the distinction as taken by the United States Judges, between the impairing the obligation of contracts, and altering or taking away the remedy for enforcing them. And they considered themselves as having the same right to analyze the reasoning, and to dissent from the opinions of the United States Judges, on all the topics not necessarily involved in the decision of the precise case before them, that they had to analyze and dissent from the obiter dicta of their own predecessors.

The conclusion to which the court arrived was, that a discharge obtained under our state laws would operate as a bar to a claim upon a contract made in this state, subsequently to the passage of the law, inasmuch, as it must be supposed to have been made in reference to such law, and the possibility of a discharge of the debt without a full payment of the money to have been at the time within the contemplation of the creditor.

The opinion of the court was given at much length, and will soon be published. The above sketch does not aim at giving the exact phraseology of the court, but the general outline is believed to be correct.

From the New-York Columbian.

"Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's."

Mr. Spooner—The writer of this communication, a few days since, received through the Post Office of this city, the following note:

"New-York, May 3.

"Sir—Having taken from you some years since, what did not belong to me, you will accept the enclosed amount from once your sworn enemy.

Yours, &c.

"—, Esq."

The writer also received, some two or three years since in a letter left with his family one hundred and forty dollars in a note of the following description:

"Sir—The enclosed amount belongs to you."

These acts of contrition, Mr. Printer, occur but seldom—and when they do occur, although it is out of the power of the writer to form an idea from whence they come, yet the influence is so great on his mind as to induce him to make it public; for if there be any who have violated the laws of God, and their consciences, in the same way, and no doubt there are thousands, let them take the example before them, and "go and do likewise." The same writer several years since, sold a considerable quantity of leas. In the delivery, a lot of Hyson was delivered instead of Hyson Skin; the seller discovered the error, and called on the purchaser to correct it;—but he had made a division of his purchase with a neighbor, who declared his portion to be correct. In the lapse of five or six years this neighbor was taken sick, and on his death bed, the Tra proved no anyode; for he had been guilty of a fraud, deceit and perjury to his neighbor, who he sent for, acknowledged the fact, and begged of him to go immediately and pay the difference in its value, together with the interest. What a lesson of morality, Mr. Printer, this would be could it reach the eyes and hearts of all who have been equally deceitful!

The following letter was received in Baltimore, via Philadelphia, and handed to the Editor of the Patriot for publication:

Lisbon, March 27.

"Recent and extensive arrivals of wheat and Indian corn from the Mediterranean, have again caused a dullness in our market for both articles, and sales for the moment are suspended. Holders, however, do not give way, and as yet keep firm in their demands of 380 a 400 rs. for corn, and 500 rs. for hard Odessa wheat per aliquot despatched.

At Oporto their prices and prospects are equally discouraging as ours. In flour there is nothing of consequence effected; and it sells very slowly by retail on shore at 12000 rs.; the duty, exclusive of other charges, being 2400 per barrel.

Rye flour is saleable at 4400 a 4800 per barrel on board. A small cargo of rice from Charleston has very lately been sold at 8100, while that of the Brazil and Levant rules nominally at 5600 a 6000 per qtl. landed. Good staves are worth 125 rs. for pipes, 80 for bbls, and 40 for bbls, each delivered on shore.

Exchange—on London, 50d—paper money. 1941 per cent discount—dollars 852 rs. and scores.

ALEXANDRIA: THURSDAY, MAY 20, 1819.

The English nation has been characterized thus elegantly by Mons. de Chateaubriand.

"I sojourned only for a short time among the Germans, Spaniards and Portuguese; but I lived a considerable time in England; and as the inhabitants of that country constitute the only people who dispute the empire of the French,* the least account of them becomes interesting.

Erasmus is the most ancient traveller with whom I am acquainted, that speaks of the English. He states that during the reign of Henry VIII, he found London inhabited by barbarians, whose huts were full of smoke. A long time afterwards, Voltaire, wanting to discover a perfect philosopher, was of opinion that he had found this character among the quakers upon the banks of the Thames. During his abode there, the taverns were the places at which the men of genius, and the friends of rational liberty assembled. England, however, is known to be the country in which religion is less discussed, though more respected, than in any other; and where the idle questions by which the tranquility of empires is disturbed, obtain less attention than any where else.

It appears to me that the secret of English manners, and their way of thinking, is to be sought in the origin of this people.—Being a mixture of French and German blood, they form a link of the chain by which those two nations are united. Their policy, their religion, their partial habits, their literature, arts and national character, appear to me a medium between the two. They seem to have united, in some degree, the brilliancy, grandeur, courage and vivacity of the French, with the simplicity, calmness, good sense and bad taste of the Germans.

Inferior to us in some things, they are superior in several others, particularly in every thing relating to commerce and wealth. They excel us also in neatness: and it is very remarkable that a people apparently of a heavy turn, should have, in their literature, dress, and manufactures, an elegance in which we are deficient. It may be said of the English, that they employ in the labors of the hand, the delicacy which we devote to those of the mind.

The principal failing of the English nation is pride; which is indeed the fault of all mankind. It prevails at Paris as well as at London, but modified by the French character, and transformed into self-love.—Pride, in its pure state, appertains to the solitary man, who is not obliged to make any sacrifice; but he who lives much with his equals, is forced to dissemble, and conceal his pride under the softer and more varied forms of vanity. The passions are, in general, more sudden and determined among the English; more active and retained among the French. The pride of the former makes him wish to crush every thing at once by force; the self-love of the other slowly undermines what it wishes to destroy. In England, a man is hated for a vice or an offence; but in France, such a motive is not necessary; for the advantages of person or of fortune, success in life, or even a bon mot will be sufficient. This animosity, which arises from a thousand disgraceful causes, is not less implacable than the enmity formed on more noble motives. There are no passions so dangerous as those which are of base origin; for they are conscious of their own baseness, and are thereby rendered furious. They endeavor to conceal it under crimes, and to impart, from its effects, a sort of appalling grandeur, which is wanting from principle. This, the French revolution sufficiently proved.

Education begins early in England.—Girls are sent to school during the tenderest years. You sometimes see groups of these little ones, dressed in white mantles, straw hats tied under the chin with a ribbon, and a basket on the arm, which contains fruit and a book—all with downcast eyes, blushing if looked at. When I have observed our French female children dressed in their antiquated fashion, lifting up the train of their gowns, looking at every one with effrontery, singing love-sick airs, and taking lessons in declamation, I have thought with regret of the simplicity and modesty of the little English girls. A child without innocence is a flower without perfume.

* This was written at the time that the whole continent of Europe had been conquered by Napoleon's arms.

The boys also pass their earliest years at school, where they learn Greek and Latin. Those who are destined for the church, or a political career, go to the universities of Oxford and Cambridge. Cambridge is particularly devoted to mathematics, in memory of Newton; but the English, generally speaking, do not hold this study in high estimation; for they think it very dangerous to good morals when carried too far. They are of opinion that the sciences harden the heart, deprive life of its enchantments, and lead weak minds to atheism, the sure road to all other crimes. On the contrary, they maintain that the belles lettres render life delightful, soften the soul, fill us with faith in the divinity, and thus conduce, through the medium of religion, to the practice of all the virtues.

When an Englishman attains manhood, agriculture, commerce, the army and navy, religion and politics, are the pursuits of life open to him. If he chuses to be what they call a gentleman farmer, he sells his corn, makes agricultural experiments, hunts foxes and shoots partridges in autumn, eats fat geese at Christmas, sings "Oh the roast beef of old England," grumbles about the times, and boasts of the past, which he thought no better at the moment—above all, inveighs against the minister and the war for raising the price of port wine, and goes inebriated to bed, intending to lead the same life on the following day.

The army, though so brilliant during the reign of Queen Ann, had fallen into a state of disrepute, from which the present war has raised it. The English were a long time before they thought of turning their principal attention to their naval force.—They were ambitious of distinguishing themselves as a continental power. It was a remnant of ancient opinions, which held the pursuits of commerce in contempt.—The English have, like ourselves, always had a species of physiognomy by which they might be distinguished. Indeed these two nations are the only ones in Europe which properly deserve the appellation. If we had our Charlemagne, they had their Alfred;—their archers shared the renown of the Gallic infantry; their Black Prince rivalled our Duguesclin; and their Marlborough our Turanne. Their revolutions and ours kept pace with each other. We can boast of the same glory; but we must deplore the same crimes and the same misfortunes.

Since England has become a maritime power, she has displayed her peculiar genius in this new career. Her navy is distinguished from all others in the world by a discipline the most singular. The English sailor is an absolute slave, who is sent on board a vessel by force, and obliged to serve in spite of himself. The man who was so independent, while a laborer, appears to lose all the rights of freedom from the moment that he becomes a mariner.—His superiors oppress him by a yoke the most galling and humiliating. Whence arises it that men of so lofty a disposition should submit to such tyranny? It is one of the miracles of a free government. In England the name of the law is Almighty. When the law has spoken, resistance is at an end.

I do not believe that we should be able, or indeed that we ought, to introduce the English system into our navy. The French seaman, who is frank, generous, and spirited, wishes to approach his commander whom he regards still more as his comrade than his captain. Moreover, a state of such absolute servitude as that of the English sailor, can only emanate from civil authority; hence it is to be feared that it would be despised by the French; for unfortunately the latter rather obeys the man than the law, and his wishes are more private than public ones.

Our naval officers have hitherto been better instructed than those of England. The latter merely knew their manoeuvres, while ours were mathematicians, and men of science in every respect. Our true character has, in general, been displayed in our navy, where we have appeared as warriors, and as men improved by study. As soon as we have vessels, we shall regain our birth right on the ocean as well as upon land. We also shall be able to make further astronomical observations, and voyages round the world—but as to our becoming a complete commercial nation, I believe we may renounce the idea at once. We do every thing by genius and inspiration—but we seldom follow up our projects. A great financier, or a great man as to commercial enterprise, may appear among us; but will his son pursue the same career?—will he not think of enjoying the fortune bequeathed by his father, instead of augmenting it? With such a disposition, no nation can become a mercantile one.—Commerce has always had among us an indescribable something of the poetic and fabulous in it, similar to the rest of our manners. Our manufactures have been created by enchantment; they acquired a great degree of celebrity, but now they are at an end.—While Rome was prudent she contented herself with the Muses and Jupiter, leaving Neptune to Carthage. This god had, after all, only the second empire, and Jupiter hurled his thunder on the ocean as well as elsewhere."

ARRIVAL OF THE PRESIDENT IN SAVANNAH.
The President of the United States and suite, arrived in Savannah on Saturday afternoon last, and was received with a dignified and becoming respect.

UNITED STATES BANK.

We are authorized by unquestionable authority to say, that Mr. Chief, President of the Bank of the United States, made no application directly or indirectly, to the Secretary of the Treasury, or any other person whomsoever, to prevail on the President of the United States, to authorize the bank to suspend specie payments. That on the contrary, it is his decided opinion, that specie payments ought to be maintained, and can without difficulty be maintained by the bank.

PROTESTED BILLS.

Niles's Register of the 1st inst. says—"We hear (metaphorically speaking) that one of the ships just arrived at N. York, was laden with protested bills of exchange from England, France, &c. and partly caused by recent bankruptcies in those countries, but chiefly in consequence of the low prices and small sale of American produce." This is a lamentable state of things. It is not to be denied that Mr. Niles caricatured the matter—but we have every evidence that his representation is true to an alarming extent. However, let no one despair. There must one certain good come out of all this evil. Speculation has been pushed too far; and the uncalculating are paying the forfeit of their imprudence. But the present distress by showing the rocks and shoals in the ocean of adventure, will, if any thing can teach the sufferers the wisdom of that slow cautious calculating policy which is truly mercantile. PRECIOUS OPAL.

Two mines of precious Opal have lately been discovered in the kingdom of Mexico, in the district of Grejar de Donos, 60 Spanish miles in the interior of Honduras. The Opals are embedded in Peruvian earth, and are accompanied by all the other varieties of Opal, but particularly with the sky blue Girasol, and the sun Opal of Sonnenschmidt.

A female Correspondent of the "American Farmer," informs the public that poultry-houses and yards may be effectually protected from Chicken-Lice, by making the roosts, nest-boxes, &c. of Sassafras-wood. The reason of this she does not pretend to give; but vouches for the fact being as indisputable as that cedar chips or tobacco will preserve woolen from moth.—We confess that this virtue in cedar chips is new to us, though "A Spinster" speaks of it as "universally known."

From the Pittsburgh Gazette, May 4.

The arrival of Mr. West's corps of Equestrians among us, brings to our minds the subject most dear to us; the advancement and growth of our western section of the continent. Thirty five years ago, a gentleman* of high standing in our country, predicted in a large company in Philadelphia, that he should live to see the day when a mail should cross the mountains once in two weeks! He was viewed as a wild enthusiast. A revolution of affairs has made this accomplished citizen a resident of an estate he held 17 miles west of Pittsburgh, and before he left this world he had the proud satisfaction (for he was an enthusiast in every thing relating to the west) of receiving his papers from New-York and Philadelphia, and of seeing a rapid mail stage from the east, pass his door three times a week!—He was still more gratified, for he lived to hear of the manufactures of Pittsburgh being wafted to the shores of Europe, in ships, built at the spot where his early patriotism had been devoted to protecting the frontiers; and conciliating the friendship of an indian population.

A subscription paper, of which the following is a copy, is left at the printing-office of S. H. Davis, for signatures:—
"We, the subscribers, being fully sensible of the importance of military dis-to the mist enrolment in the common battalion companies, do hereby agree to form ourselves into a UNIFORM COMPANY, to be denominated — The uniform to be that which the law prescribes, and the officers to be elected by the company."

The advantages resulting to the members of such an association are obvious.—
The uniform will not be an expense, as in other companies, it being that which the militia law requires every individual to appear in, which requisition will be rigidly enforced hereafter by courts martial. The number will be limited to 64, and those desiring of becoming members should enroll themselves immediately. 3t May 18

Penmanship.

A PRACTICAL, easy running hand warranted, and no compensation received except there is an improvement made to the utmost satisfaction of the young ladies and gentlemen who attend.

Those disposed may try the experiment during 12 hours, at the end of which time, if their improvement does not meet their approbation, they may withdraw with no charge made. And further, if those scholars who continue on through the 16 lessons, do not in their own estimation, or in the estimation of their parents or guardians, make more improvement than is generally made in two years, in the old way of teaching, it is requested that no one pay any thing.

During the 16 lessons are taught the small running hand, secretary and Italian hand, the last of which is particularly fashionable for young ladies.

The teacher having had nearly eight years experience at various seminaries of learning and in the principal cities and towns in the United States, offers the advantage of this long experience to all those who apply, during the present week, after which none can be received.

Those disposed to engage, may apply at the writing room, Washington-street, two doors north of King street, where may be seen specimens of hand writing, acquired in less than one week. Application must be made during the present week—after which not one scholar will be received.

A class of young ladies may attend at any separate hours, either in the morning or evening; and also young ladies who prefer it may take lessons at home.

As this plan of writing embraces the two essential qualities of a good penman, ease and elegance; and as the time necessary to acquire it is merely nothing, it is believed, if its real utility were fully known, not one person of any age, who has the least wish of improving his hand writing, would hesitate to try the experiment. Perhaps this opportunity may not offer again in Alexandria for many years.

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 18 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Potlick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaster acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given, for grain being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary out-house, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well-selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvas backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Hogs, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the River, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Potlick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.
September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirous of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county, Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—10 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house, with a kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutritious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—It would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it.—The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq., or

At his office, next door below Crawford's tavern, Bridge-st. Georgetown, will exchange all kinds of Bank Notes on the most reasonable terms.—All persons who may have notes on the banks of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, would do well to call on him, as he is largely in the purchase of that kind of money, and will take it on the most reasonable terms.—Persons travelling to the Western Country may at all times get the Bank Notes of the Western Banks at a fair discount, by calling at his Office. For the information of all persons throughout the U. States, R. Riggs makes it known, that all of the Banks of the District of Columbia pay their notes on demand in specie; and it would be much to the advantage of the merchants, and trading to the South and west, to encourage the circulation of the Notes of the Banks of Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria, as it will at all times answer for remittances to the large commercial and Atlantic towns;—all persons emigrating or travelling to the westward should be very particular and take the Notes of the Banks of the District of Columbia, as they will air them the most current, there being no counterfeits on the District Banks. Blacking for Boots & Shoes, Superior to any ever offered to the public.

ROBERT COCHRAN, No. 48, North Fourth-street, next door to the Green Tree Inn, Philadelphia.

WITH confidence offers to the public, his superior Portable and Liquid Blacking, so much admired and approved of, which is manufactured by himself only.

This blacking possesses every desirable quality, being of an oily nature, it preserves the leather perfectly soft to the last, and keeps it from cracking—it is a jet black, affords a most superlative polish, entirely free from any offensive smell, and so clean as not to soil the whistles, muslin or any other substance it may chance to run against, and will keep in any climate—it has a peculiar advantage in being put up in a portable manner, and may be packed without possibility of risk, with the nicest clothes or goods. The Portable Blacking is much adapted for gentlemen residing or travelling in the country, where materials for making Blacking is not to had, and as for cheapness and elegance, far exceeds any ever imported or manufactured in the Union. Where is sold as above, the beautiful Chinese Liquid Blacking, for ladies' morocco boots and shoes, which makes the oldest morocco boots or shoes appear the same as when new. Sold wholesale at the manufactory, as above.

N. B. Please observe that each bottle is sealed and signed by the proprietor, to prevent spurious impressions being imposed on the public.

It may be had at the following places in Alexandria.—Dr. Stabler and Richard Woods on Fairfax street.—Dr. Semmes, & Dr. Little's apothecary shops, on King-street.—Isaac Entwistle's shoe factory, and Thomas Mount's factory & Hardware store on King-street. sw2m March 20

Charlotte Hall School.

THE board of trustees for Charlotte Hall school deem it their duty to announce to the public, the present flourishing condition of this institution. Since the introduction of the present professors, the school has rapidly progressed in the public estimation.

When Philip Briscoe, esq. was called to assume the office of Principal, there were but 27 pupils. The liberality of the State Legislature of 1817, enabled the trustees to retain his services and to use of Mr. Millicent for the classical department—the Reverend Mr. Neale H. Shaw has also been retained as professor of mathematics, and he is aided in that department by Mr. Sweetsee, a gentleman in high estimation as a professor. Under the management of these gentlemen the school has now 95 boys; and very many applications have already been made for entrance and board. Heretofore a portion of the boys have been compelled to board at the neighboring houses at too great a distance from the school; the trustees are now making arrangements which will enable fifty boys more to be accommodated immediately at the school; so that at all times the Principal will be enabled to exercise a general superintendence over their moral deportment (to the corruption of which the boys in this retired village have but few temptations). The board will remark to those who are unacquainted with this place, that no part of Maryland is more distinguished for its general healthfulness. The price of board is only 100 dollars a year. The tuition is now but 28 dollars a year! It will be raised after August to 32 dollars—a price much lower, however, than any of the public schools of our State.

It is intended then by the trustees to select four boys (of poor and indigent parents) of promise, and to board, clothe, and educate them entirely at the expense of the institution, and afterwards to labor to procure them that station to which their talents and conduct may entitle them.

Signed, by order,
NEALE H. SHAW, Reg'r.

Vaccine Institution.

THE small pox having appeared in Alexandria, such persons as have been vaccinated by the subscriber are invited to attend at his office, on St. Asaph-street, between Prince and Duke streets, to have their arms examined. Indigent persons are also invited to the same place for the purpose of being vaccinated. The subscriber will attend at his office every day in the week except Sunday, from 7 o'clock until 10 in the morning, for the purpose of receiving them.

He proposes also to be less particular than heretofore in the investigation of their claims to the benefit of the institution, as may respect their indigence and length of residence in town. The subscriber earnestly requests all such citizens as may be acquainted with persons liable to contagion, to send them without delay as above directed, where they will be served effectually and gratuitously.
